

Evening Special,
Tuesday, 24 August 2017

“Define your personal USP”

with Carsten Sudhoff, Director Talent & Career Center, von Rundstedt & Partner Schweiz AG

Carsten holds a Banking Degree from the Dresdner Bank, a BA in International Business Administration and Economics from the American University of Paris and an MBA in entrepreneurship from HEC Paris. He has lived or worked in 8 different countries in Asia, Europe and the Americas.

During 12 years with DaimlerChrysler AG, Carsten worked in Logistics, Finance & Controlling and Human Resources in regional or global leadership roles of increasing seniority. In his last role he held responsibility as Head of Corporate HR across 15 countries in Asia Pacific.

As Chief Human Resources Officer of the World Economic Forum (WEF), Carsten had the exceptional opportunity to interact and work with many top leaders from politics, business, civil society and academia. Leading the WEF’s think tank on “New Models of Leadership” has helped him understand the issues leaders face in today’s complex, digital reality and has allowed him to further drive his thought leadership in this domain.

In 2013 he founded CircularSociety AG to cultivate a new approach to leadership and innovation-ability in order to build economic sustainability, innovation and social responsibility into the core of our businesses and societies. In 2016 he joined the board of management of Von Rundstedt Switzerland where he is managing a disruptive approach to career transition for executives across industries.

He is faculty of China’s foremost business school (CEIBS) where he teaches a cutting edge eMBA program on leadership and he is member of several advisory boards.

Over the past 15 years he has consulted, trained and developed hundreds of individuals and leaders and has helped them better deliver on their tasks, develop their teams and manage their own careers.